San Juan's Can of Beer Cost Him Joseph Pearlman Complains to Actress May Hosmer Made No a Cool $100.

Harry Edwards Took a $142 Snooze Knocked Down and Beaten by a in a Hammock.

Sneak thieves and burgiars reaped a ich harvest in Brooklyn during the night Then Laughed At in a Station House and early this morning. Two Italians entered Ralph San Juan's shoe store, 187 Prospect street, early today and asked the shoemaker for change of a $5 bill. He secured the money from trunk, which stood in the rear of the store, and gave it to them. The men thanked him, and then offered to treat him to beer if he would go after it. San Juan visited a saloon close by, and returned in a few minutes.

After the trio had emptied the can the strangers departed. An hour later the shoemaker discovered that the men had stolen $100 from his trunk.

Harry W. Edwards, of 329 Patchen avenue, fell asleep in a hammock outside his house last night, and did not awaken until 1 o'clock this morning, when he discovered that some thief had rified his pockets of $122 in money and certified checks calling for $25 more.

Thieves entered the home of Bessie McWaiters, $79 Warren street, last night and stole $20 in money belonging to her brother. The family was absent at the time and an entrance was effected by the use of skeleton keys.

There will be much grumbling among the patrons of Jim Lee, a laundryman, of 225 Court street, when they call for their clothing this week. Thieves got into the place last night and carried off $23 in money, a sliver watch and several bundles of clothing.

Mrs. William Stuart, of 48 Park avenue, notified the police this morning that her nephew, William Daly, aged nineteen, had left home suddenly on Sunday. She was surprised at his absence, and was still more greatly surprised this morning when she discovered that $30 in money which she had hidden in a bureau drawer had siso vanished. She asked the police to look for both.
